Tenesol to present alongside distributor partner at PV Rome Mediterranean 2010

Tenesol, the global solar power provider owned by energy giants TOTAL and EDF, will exhibit alongside NWG, its distributor for the small installation market in Italy, at PV Rome Mediterranean (RM) 2010. Tenesol and NWG established an exclusive partnership in May this year. Tenesol and NWG will present advanced solar modules and highlight their combined 35 years experience providing turnkey PV solutions.

PV Rome Mediterranean is part of Zeroemission Rome, the largest renewable energy event in the Mediterranean region. It takes place between 8th – 10th September at the New Rome Fair Centre.

“Our partnership with NWG in Italy has proved highly successful and we are delighted to participate with them at Italy’s leading renewable energy event,” says Claude Escala, European Director at Tenesol. “As the second largest market in Europe, Italy presents a unique opportunity for continued growth in the PV sector. I look forward to welcoming visitors to our stand and displaying our advanced PV solutions that can be tailored to suit almost any requirement.”

Tenesol will have a 36m<sup>2</sup> stand at PV RM and will be located in Hall 5, Stand D8. The company’s advanced PV systems and technologies will be on display showcasing its 26 years experience in providing PV solutions for off-grid and on-grid applications across the globe.

A selection of company representatives from Tenesol including Claude Escala and Alessio Palla, general manager of Tenesol Italy, will be on hand to meet with visitors.

More than 220 exhibitors are expected at PV RM and attendance is set to exceed 2009’s record of 25,000 visitors.
